Theodore Roosevelt High School

San Antonio, Texas 78218

1 Cavaliers and Patriots move to the music of the fight song as they cheer on the Riders at the Lee game.

2 Smiling in anticipation of the football game and armed with balloons, seniors Jill Bukowski and Joanie Sefcik take time to have their pictures snapped.

4 Jeff Paxson throws up his baritone as he marches back to the stands after halftime.

Riders tied by tradition

Roosevelt is one of San Antonio's largest cliques — 3,000 strong. All are a part of the same mold. Hundreds more used to be involved in the select group; now they are alumni — removed from TR's daily experience but forever tied by the recurring customs.

They haven't forgotten the symbol of our school pride, the Big Stick, or how it felt to see the Windcrest Tower lit up in honor of our victory. They don't know, though, that the cafeteria now has an outside eating area or that the east parking lot is filled with portables as witness to our expansion in new fields of study.

Hundreds more will be welcomed into the TR clique. Never knowing that the once vacant fields were a favorite necking spot, the future Riders will discover new places to seek privacy. Celebrations of new victories will be theirs. Rediscovering old traditions will forever unite graduates of the 60's and 70's with those of the 1980's. Faces in the clique change; sentiments remain the same.

5 Finding classroom pressures to be too much, senior John Burke seeks comfort in an old childhood solace.

Mascot unifies TR

TR is often referred to as the most patriotic school in San Antonio. Everything about it bears witness to the fact that Teddy Roosevelt was the best. Students running to and from class are always reminded of our namesake. Mementos of him abound in our school, not the least of which is the Big Stick — the affirmation of all the pride, honor and determination Riders set forth.

Although the interests of TR students are varied, the paper maché mascot serves to unify the student body as no other emblem could. It is a symbolic representation of what Rough Riders stand for — strength of body and strength of mind. For TR students, Teddy Roosevelt's notable statement still rings true: "Speak softly and carry a Big Stick."

Students escape from classroom

In the event that boredom should capture any student's attention, the Administration provides a number of ways to escape class. Fall pep rallies end classes early while such sundry activities as movies, blood drives, choral and drama presentations, school sports, senior assemblies and field trips occasionally provide interesting alternatives to class.

When the strain of education is too much and school diversions no relief, vacations and weekends bring the needed free time and draw many students down to the waterfronts. Canyon Lake and Stinky Falls' clear waters, invigorating rapids, great fishing, and excellent water skiing spots make them two of TR's favorite recreational areas. The coastal waters lured many students down to the beaches, offering golden tans, sandy hair and plenty of companionship.

Students continue traditional customs

Ideas and activities enjoyed are often repeated, relatively unchanged. For years students have sung the same refrains to the Alma Mater and the fight song "Victors." And although some may disagree to exact shades, school colors have been red, white and blue forever. While pizza flows, conversations have never stopped at Gatti's since it opened.

Customs do not have to be ancient to be considered traditions. In its three years of existence, the Bonfire has become as important to celebrants as mum and balloon sales. Traditions such as the Student Council are quite established but are given a new outlook through change and renovation.

1 Deana Vincent and Rebecca Weich stand at the rail yelling their support.

Thousands attend football events

Thousands of people gather each fall in Blossom Athletic Center to watch the football games. They see the color guard on the field, hear the drum beat as the cavaliers and the band enter, watch the cheerleaders and the Big Stick carriers as they lead cheers, see the Patriots high kick routine and clap enthusiastically as the Rough Rider football team rushes through the breakthrough.

Without these spectators realizing it, they are the ones who keep these customary activities alive.

Organizations broaden learning experiences

Students join organizations to broaden their TR experiences. By doing so, they bring themselves into contact with and later become individuals who are the keepers and supporters of various traditions. Whereas organizations like the Patriots may be in the spotlight because of pomp and ceremony other campus organizations contribute more subtle ideas to TR customs.

Each year the Key and Keyettes clubs work to improve the campus and the community. ROTC cadets practice daily to preserve their outstanding skill and precision which is part of the TR tradition. Career-oriented organizations, such as cosmetology, prepare for and learn about their future occupation. And the SAGA MORE staff works to preserve all these events as it has for the past thirteen years.

1 Charlie McDermott and Greg Zolninger take a rest between quarters of the Churchill game.

3 Patriots Janet Rund, Belinda Mora, Kim Gray, Julie Anderson and Marsha Damron practice the traditional high-kick routine.

THOMAS E. MOSELEY

Moseley receives first dedication

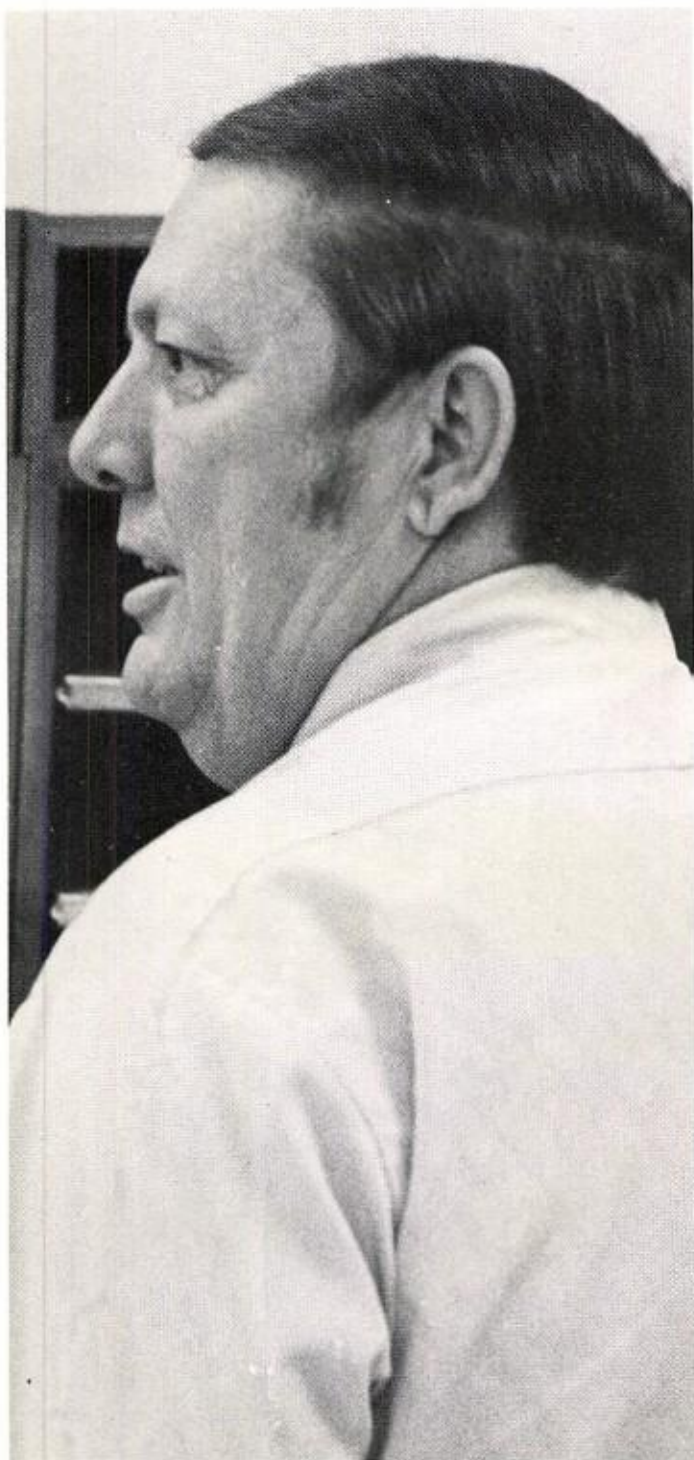

In the thirteen years of Roosevelt's existence, many traditions have developed out of the daily experience of TR students. The SAGAMORE staff would like to start the tradition of annual dedications. We would like to dedicate the 1979 SAGAMORE to a man that deserves recognition for his great concern and initiative in striving to make Roosevelt the best high school in San Antonio.

Tom Moseley has shown his devotion to our school and his concern for each of us here at TR. Students and faculty alike have benefitted from the contributions he has made. In his four years as principal, Moseley has continued the existing policies and programs and instituted new ones.

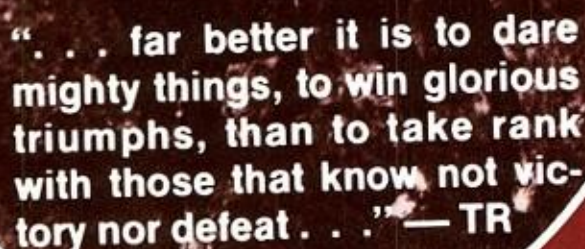

In addition to his administrative duties at Roosevelt, Moseley finds time to be an active member of many civic and professional organizations. His initiative is exemplified in his instrumental work in establishing, both locally and state wide, many junior PGA golf tournaments.

We owe him the same respect that he so generously has given to us. It is encouraging to know that there is someone who is genuinely concerned and is always there to help.

Beta Club aids in production of literary magazine

Beta Club's primary project was working with the publications department to produce the OUTLOOK. Club members screened poetry, art, prose and literature, selecting those to be included in the literary/art magazine.

The club, with more than 30 members, required an "A" English average and a "B" overall average. Members attended several literary events such as the St. Mary's showings of Sophocles' films "Antigone" and "Ithigenia."

Highlighting the year for Spanish Club members was the annual trip to Mexico, where they spent the day sight-seeing in Nuevo-Laredo.

During the Christmas holidays, the club went to a children's home taking with them a piñata, presents, and a visit from Santa Claus.

Throughout the year the Spanish club was also involved in intramural competition with other clubs. Volleyball games provided fun and excitement for many club members.

The Spanish Honor Society has a formal installation in March for the induction of new members.

Spanish Honor Society ended the year in May with a picnic in the park, and a banquet held at Karams Mexican Restaurant.

Wurstfest highlights club schedule

Roosevelt students brushed up on their polkas, put on their lederhosen, and made ready for the weinerschnitzel for their annual German Club visit to the Wurstfest in New Braunfels. The group ate a variety of german foods and listened to the music of Myron Floren.

In November, the German Club entered the MacArthur Spruchfest Language Contest. Mark Baradziej was a three time winner.

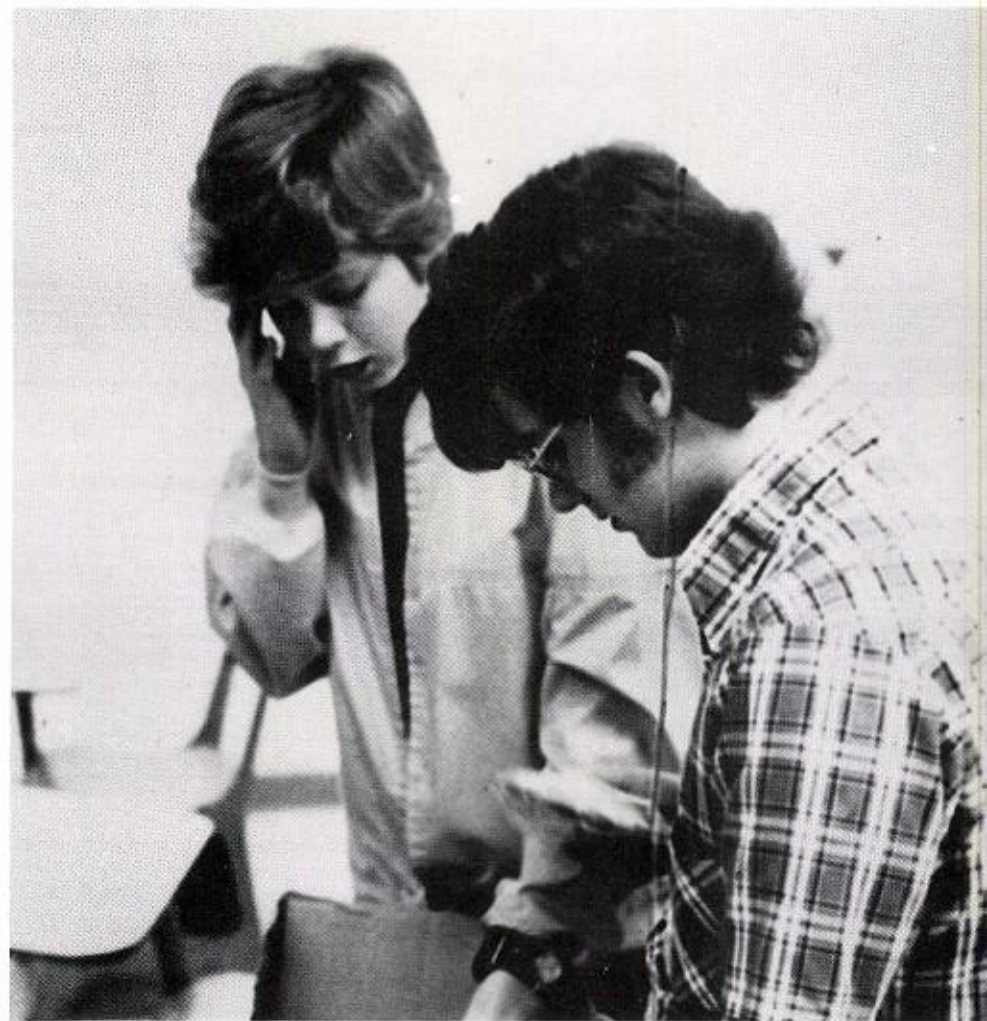

As always many sweethearts were made happy with a gingerbread heart made by the German Club. The club baked and decorated over 160 hearts.

Also deciding to have some athletic fun, the club organized a soccer team. The team plays other schools and language departments.

Teams rank top

If winning awards is any indication of a quality group, then Roosevelt's ROTC certainly ranks in the top percentile. San Juan Guard, the male varsity team took first place at Gonzales, Texas. In October, the eighth annual K-mart drill meet was held in Wichita Falls where they again took the top award. Another big winner for the team was at Trinity's first annual JROTC where they won third overall. On the girls' team, the Riderettes, the winning of first place overall at Gonzales was easy. At the meet in Wichita Falls the team won fourth overall. The team was the only one representing Roosevelt at the Central Catholic High School Meet where they also won third overall and first in inspection.

Rifle team won fourth place overall.

AFS sponsors Hollander

American Field Service, the group that sponsors the foreign exchange program, has welcomed new student Mainsa Rypkema.

Though none of the club members travelled to foreign countries this year, several plan to travel in the future.

AFS also participated in a jointly sponsored Culture Night with the Harumby Club. There the AFS participated with shows on several foreign countries.

Mainse and Mariko enjoy American way

Mainsa Rypkema, (Mine-suh Reep-key-ma) nicknamed the "Flying Dutchman" by his fellow students, is one of the newest faces at Roosevelt this year. Mainsa, who is from Bussem, Holland, enjoys TR, but was surprised at the amount of spirit shown by school and community. In Holland, school is for learning and the community doesn't get involved in extra curricular activities.

Mainsa enjoys sports, especially soccer, and likes to keep busy, but doesn't like staying indoors.

During his stay, he is living with Dave and Billicarole Evans. Mainsa finds people are more relaxed and friendlier in San Antonio, and one of his ambitions is to go to a drive-in movie here. Why? Because "They don't have them in Holland."

Another of those new faces belongs to Mariko Kimura, a native of Tokyo, Japan. Mariko, called Mary by her friends, says she "likes Roosevelt very much". The school she attended in Tokyo was a private girls school, and was "very different" from TR.

Mary enjoys Texas, and especially loves the coast. While she is here, Mary is learning a third language. Though she speaks Japanese as her native language, and is fluent in English, she is also learning Spanish.

Mariko, who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Walby during her visit, is returning to Japan this summer, but hopes to visit the U.S. again with a college exchange program.

Clubs support TR community

Key Club was formed as a service organization under the Kiwanis Club the year Roosevelt opened. The Keyette Club joined them several years later.

In 1979, both clubs were active functioning as what member George Garza described as "a necessary link between the school and the community." Garza also said that the clubs were the best way that students could show an interest in the community.

The clubs undertook numerous service projects throughout the year. Several projects involved helping health organizations as in the Run-a-thon for Mental Health and Retardation Association, the Skate-a-thon for Cystic Fibrosis, the Muscular Dystrophy Battle of the Bands, the March of Dimes Haunted House and the house-to-house collection for Muscular Dystrophy.

Key Club raised money at Christmas by taking down Winsor Park Mall's Christmas decorations while Keyettes sold doughnuts and candy canes.

Other projects included helping at the KBUC Birthday Party, visiting the elderly in the Southern Manor Nursing Home and attending the regional convention. Members ended the year with a banquet at the St. Anthony Hotel.

Journalists strive to meet deadlines

Long hours, hard work and lots of headaches best describes a day in the life of the publication department — a fulltime never-ending job.

Producing a tri-weekly newspaper — Big Stick, an annual — Sagamore and a literary magazine — Outlook, isn't the easiest job to do. No, it takes patience, guts, and determination compiled with lots of humor (for sanity's sake) to publish the above.

With deadlines to meet, journalists found many trips to the printers and long hours after school.

Editors Jena Fuller and Karen Boyd, under the guidance of Demetra Redmon, found Journalism a 24-hour job. But with help from staffers Marc Peavy, Kim Wadsworth, Liza Reyes, Mary Lucas, and John Woelz sticking together to carry out the finished product, the job was completed.

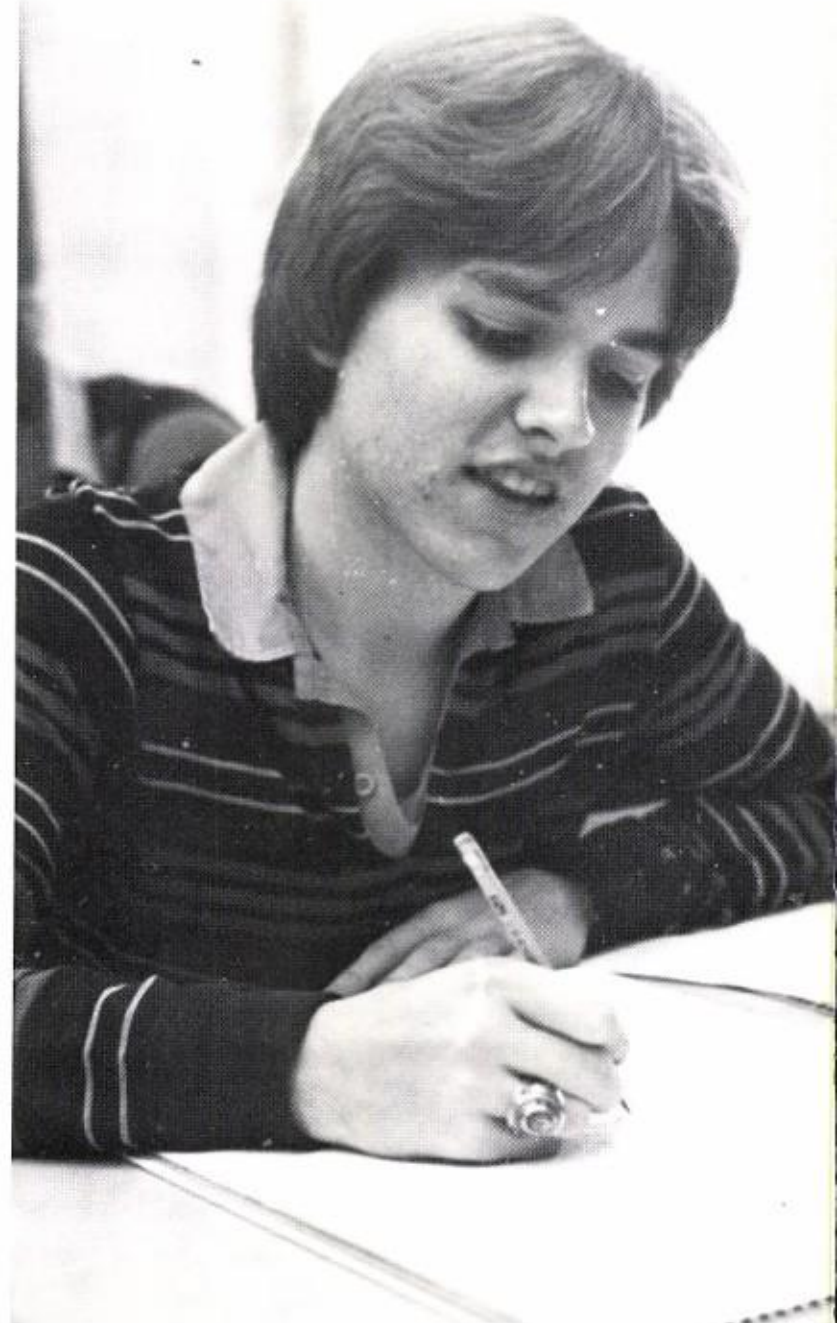

Photo credits go to Alan Ortiz and Greg Ochse for scanning the campus, following the sport events, and buying front seats for top concerts, to snap those memorable shots.

Club raises funds¹ for spring banquet

TR's outstanding mathematicians highlighted the year with a banquet at the Old San Francisco Steak House in May. The club raised money for the dinner through the sale of baked goods. Members raised additional funds charting the bio-rhythms of students and faculty.

Club members spent many hours creating math tests that were given to all levels of math students. High scoring students received plaques and certificates for their achievements.

Mu Alpha Theta is an exclusive club. All members must have "A" averages in their math classes. "It's quite an honor to be a member and I'm very proud to be a part of it," said Nancy Hess. "I think it speaks well of Roosevelt to have over 75 members," she added.

People Group greets students

Roosevelt's People Group is something more than just a group of students who call themselves people. "It is a loosely organized club whose purpose is to make new students feel more at home," sponsor Carolyn Ney said.

Members guided students at freshman orientation and directed tours during registration. In September they invited all newcomers to a party in the Student Center where members organized interactions — games to help students get to know each other.

Throughout the year the club kept a "Help Wanted" list posted in the counselors' office. On that list students who asked for help finding classes or someone to eat lunch with or some similar service were befriended by a member of the People Group.

Participants speak out

Parents, students and faculty members had a chance to exchange views at three PAFLE (Parent And Family Life Education) workshops Feb. 1, 8 and 15.

Guest speaker Bob Niehoff, Center School counselor, conducted the workshops in an attempt to improve communication lines between students and adults. Included in topics for discussion were the existence of peer groups, social groups at Roosevelt and the "new morality" question.

Divided into small groups, students exchanged ideas of the purpose and activities of certain peer groups. Explaining the purpose of certain peer groups, Niehoff said that most adolescents need security and a sense of belonging when they reach high school.

Ski trip highlights² club activities

Skiing highlighted the year for the Campus Life Club. Members traveled to Colorado in December for a week of snowskiing and tobogganing.

Many club members spent Halloween week working as ghouls in the Campus Life Haunted House. To promote club membership, sponsors Emily and Charlie Simons hosted a burger bash. The club ended the year with a field trip to Six Flags to watch the gospel group TRUTH perform.

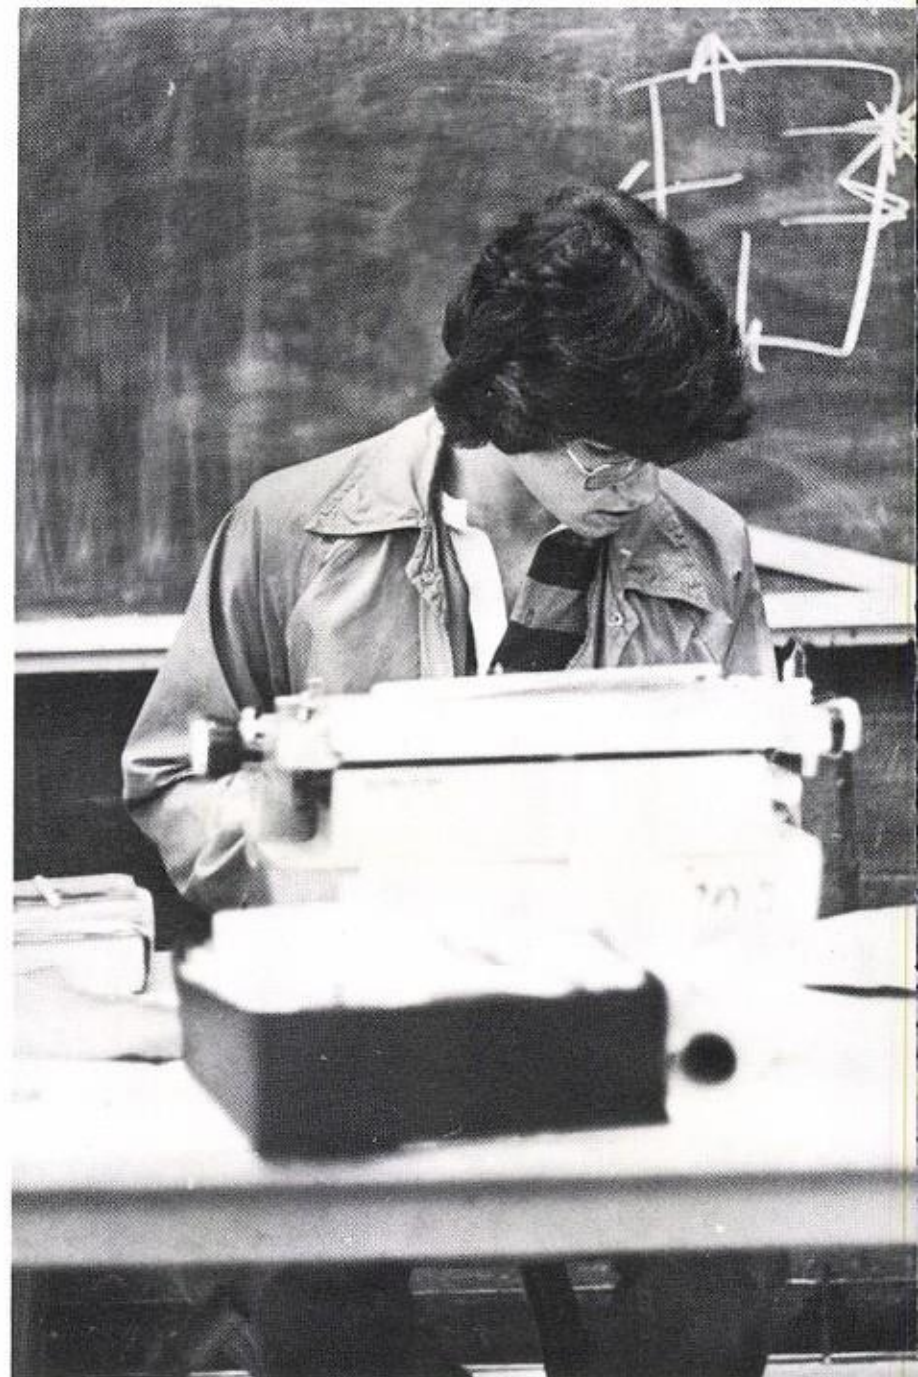

Societies tutor fellow classmates

As an aid to their fellow classmates the National and National Junior Honor Societies set up tutoring services. The program offered studies as diversified as Russian and Shorthand as well as the basic Math, English, and Social Studies.

The Societies were also active in the community involving themselves in many projects such as giving a Christmas Party at a Mental Health Center and aiding in the opening of the Texas Research Center.

Other projects for the National Honor Society include collecting cotton scraps for San Antonio's disabled citizens, sponsoring dances for the Senior Adult Activity Center, and selling candy for the Kidney Foundation.

Perhaps the favorite activity for the group was "Secret Pals," in which members had two faculty members to support throughout the years. Members would leave food, small surprises, and notes of encouragement for their pals. Faculty members found out the identity of their pals at the end of the year.

Council promotes school spirit

Some of the many activities Student Council sponsored included Homecoming '78, the Howdy Dance, Ugly Legs Contest, Teachers' Breakfast, Spirit Week, the canned food drive, and the blood drive.

"TR's Student Council being president of all the South Texas Student Councils has really been a challenge, but it has been fun and enjoyable for all of us," said Junior representative Doug Meyers. Student Council was not only elected president of the South Texas district, but also hosted representatives from most Texas high school Student Councils at the State Convention in April.

League promotes competitive performance

Many promising careers require the knack and ability to dramatize and debate. The Roosevelt National Forensic League provides the experience of debate and drama.

This club is a national honor society for speech students. N.F.L. is designed to aid and encourage high school students in the communications field. It emphasizes voluntary competition at various meets throughout the year. Every National Forensic League member's goal is to qualify for the National Tournament held in June.

Students compete all year in many a nose-twitching, hair scratching debate tournament. Students who earn enough qualifying points enable themselves the honor of joining the National Forensic League.

Members of this league, throughout their successes demonstrate the perfection received through extensive practicing.

Choir celebrates holiday with Renaissance Feaste

The choir held their annual Madrigal Feaste December 8 and 9 at Camelot Elementary and at Christ Lutheran Church on the 10th. They started the program with singing of some songs from the Renaissance. Then the dinner of Rock Cornish Hen was served. After dinner, the play "King George and the Dragon" was performed by members of the choir. The choir concluded with some more tunes.

Also this year a selected few of the chamber and choral choirs attended the MENC Convention at Colorado Springs, February 1-4 where they received a standing ovation after their concert.

Musicians strive to improve

Although the Concert and Varsity Bands are not given much recognition throughout the year, these bands contributed much to the music program.

Concert band consists of advanced players while Varsity band is composed of beginners. Both groups strive to improve sound, skill, and various musical techniques.

While Varsity band does not perform publicly, Concert band plays at Christmas, for Band Parent Meeting, and at the UIL Concert Contest. Even though these bands are behind the scenes they greatly assist in fund raising projects and functions initiated by the department.

Right in the middle of football season, marching band took off one weekend to go to Dallas and compete in the "Parade of Champions" contest. The group achieved the highest honor by placing first in their category and bringing home a trophy and one thousand dollars.

Throughout the rest of the year, members competed in District, Region, and Area competitions. Phillip Shiffrin, Tom Mack, Stuart Green, and Kyle Turner went on to be chosen for All-State Band while Danny Vimont made All-State Orchestra.

In addition, marching band put on several concerts while stage band performed publicly at the Annual Sausage Supper, plus several banquets and dances. Richard Maddux and John Garza were chosen outstanding musicians when stage bands competed in the Jazz Band contest at UTSA.

Club aids underprivileged

San Antonio Police Department was the scene this Christmas for Roosevelt's Law Enforcement Club. The club sponsored by Duke Harlow was involved in the giving of a Merry Christmas to underprivileged families.

The club originated at Roosevelt last year. The main objective of the club is to further align itself with San Antonio's criminal justice agencies.

Law Enforcement Clubs in the area come together during the year to compete in the academics and athletics. Among other club activities are the annual breakfast and picnic.

Girls lift spirits

Supporting all events regardless of time or place, the varsity cheerleaders remained loyal throughout the year. Artists suit clubs to a "T"

Art Club solved the fund raising problem faced by all clubs by selling silkscreened T-shirts to other TR clubs. It was the third year the club had taken on such a project.

Art students completed in class many daily projects ranging in mediums from calligraphy to water colors. Besides classwork, club members took time out for field trips to art galleries and museums.

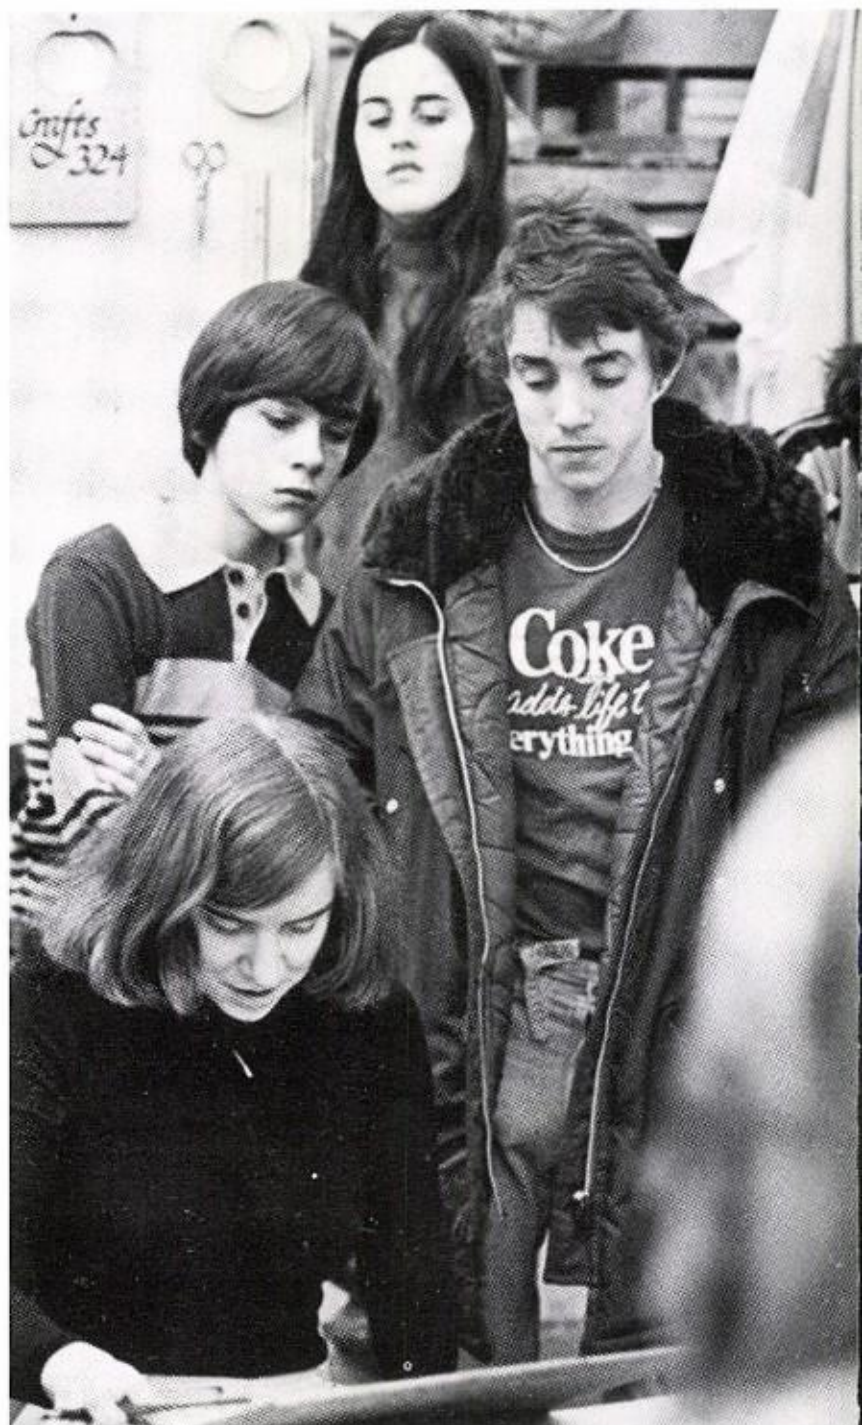

Displays were also an important part of art students' busy schedules. Projects by Art IV and V students were displayed in the Little Theater in April. In addition more than 40 TR students displayed works in the Young Artists Night Gallery, a districtwide show for all art students.

Hats earmark TR's cowboys

If you ever looked around and said to yourself "Why the cowboy hats?", now you have an answer. Roosevelt is the only Northeast High School that has a Rodeo Club.

Most of its members wear these hats to show everyone they are in the club. Unlike most organizations of Roosevelt, they do not have jackets bearing their name.

Because of this, the group received permission to wear their hats in the group picture.

The purpose of the club is to promote amateur high school rodeo events, horsemanship, and good sportsmanship. Traditionally, the Rodeo Club participates in the San Antonio Livestock Show and Rodeo and this year was no exception. Over 15 club members participated in the event.

1 A few of the club members relax on a hayride at the Livestock Show.

Club raises money for State Fair trip

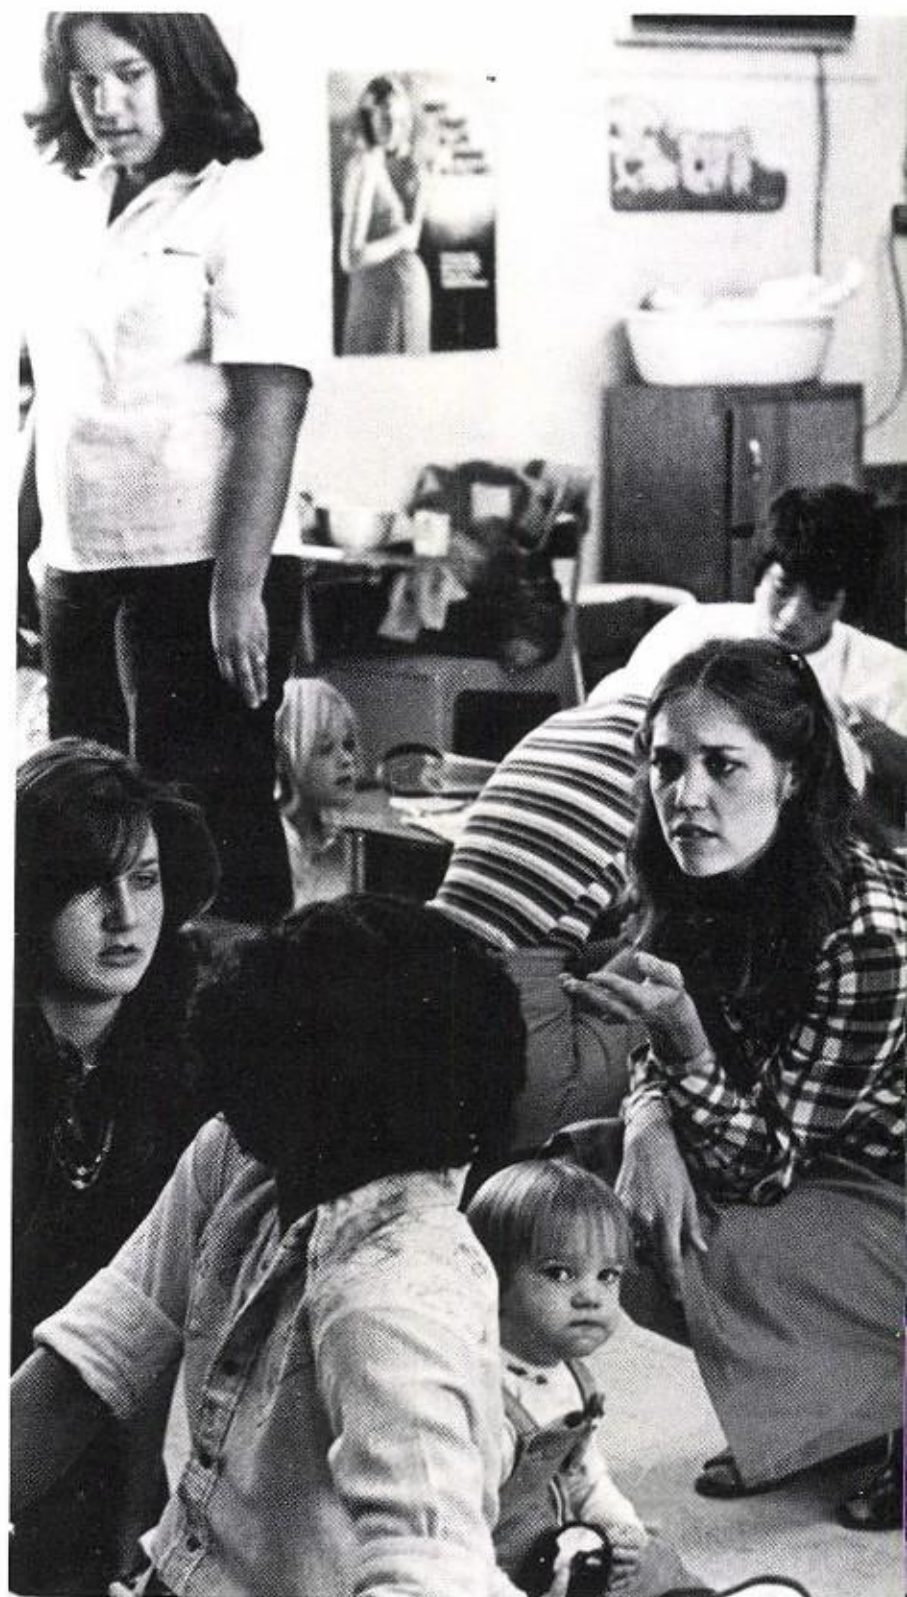

Texas State Fair at Dallas provided Future Homemakers of America with plenty laughter and excitement in October. Members raised money for the trip by selling candy and stationery.

FHA's in-class meetings produced such varied projects as Thanksgiving trays for the elderly in nursing homes and the football break-through for the San Marcos game.

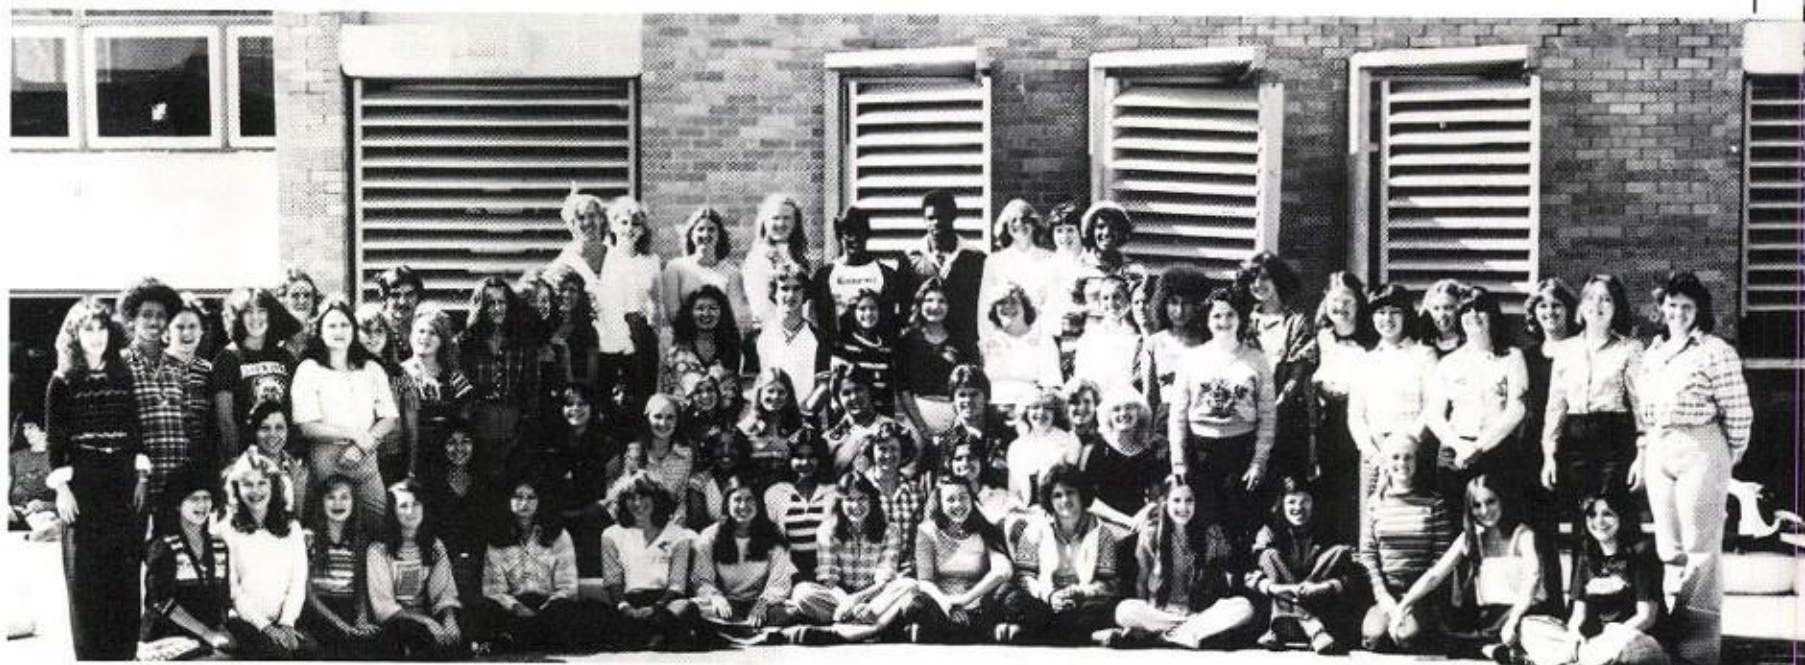

FHA is a club open to all homemaking students and surprisingly enough, there are almost as many boys as girls in the club.

VOCCT helps train for careers

The Vocational Office Career Club of Texas is an association of Chartered local VOCCT chapters. Programs under this heading are Coordinated Vocational Academic Education, Industrial Cooperative Training-Health Occupations and Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas.

With over 100 members, VOCCT is the largest vocational group. The program offers several areas of training for students who want a head start in their chosen career field. Under the VOCCT plan, students are able to receive on-the-job training before leaving high school.

The various organizations within VOCCT raised money during the year by selling boxes of M&M's and Reese's candy. Profits went toward employer-employee breakfasts.

VOCCT members were also active competitors. In the areas of work skill and job exhibition, 30 members went to district with 17 advancing to state.

Homecoming '78

Homecoming. For some it meant nothing more than a football game and a dance, but for others, including many alumni of Roosevelt, it was a time for memories and reminiscences.

Homecoming 1978 started Nov. 9 with the Roosevelt-Clemens football game. The Riders ran over the Clemens Buffalo by a score of 47-0. At halftime, the Homecoming King and Queen were announced. King was senior Steve Payne and Queen was senior Elaine Munoz. Members of the court were: senior princesses: Tammy Baker and Susan Sullivan; senior princes, John Maher and Greg Dickson; junior duchesses and dukes included Elaine Wilson, Sharon Smith, Greg Zolninger and Greg Minor. Sophomore lords and ladies-in-waiting were Griff Zolninger, Mark Permenter, Cathy Cox and Princess Taylor. Kevin Koons, Kyle Peirce, Lisa Benevides and Nancy Kroger were the Freshman counts and countesses. Following the TR-Clemens clash, was a reception at the Virgil T. Blossom student center where TR students and alumni got together and discussed past memories at TR.

Athletes enter district olympics

Students in Special Education classes of the North East area competed in the North East Special Olympic track and field meet on March 13 at Blossom Athletic Center. There was friendly competition as the participants competed in such events as the standing long jump, frisbee throw, softball throw, tug of war, and numerous other events.

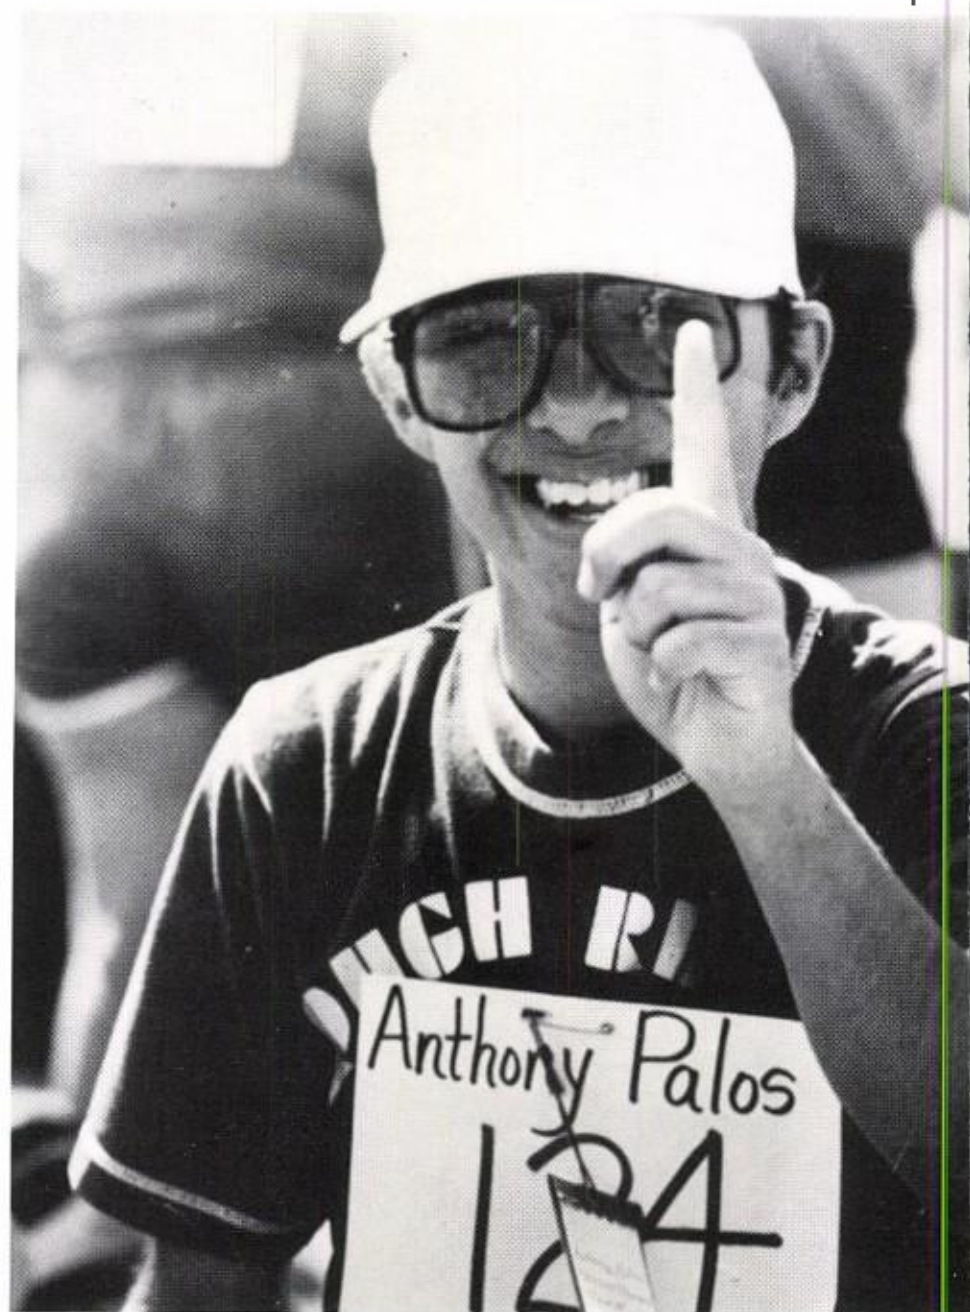

Volunteers from Roosevelt accompanied the athletes, giving them encouragement and confidence. The winners of the district meet went on to city meet at Alamo Stadium April 22. Mrs. Whitehouse was the sponsor for Roosevelt's resource classes in the Special Olympics.

Dance fever breaks boredom

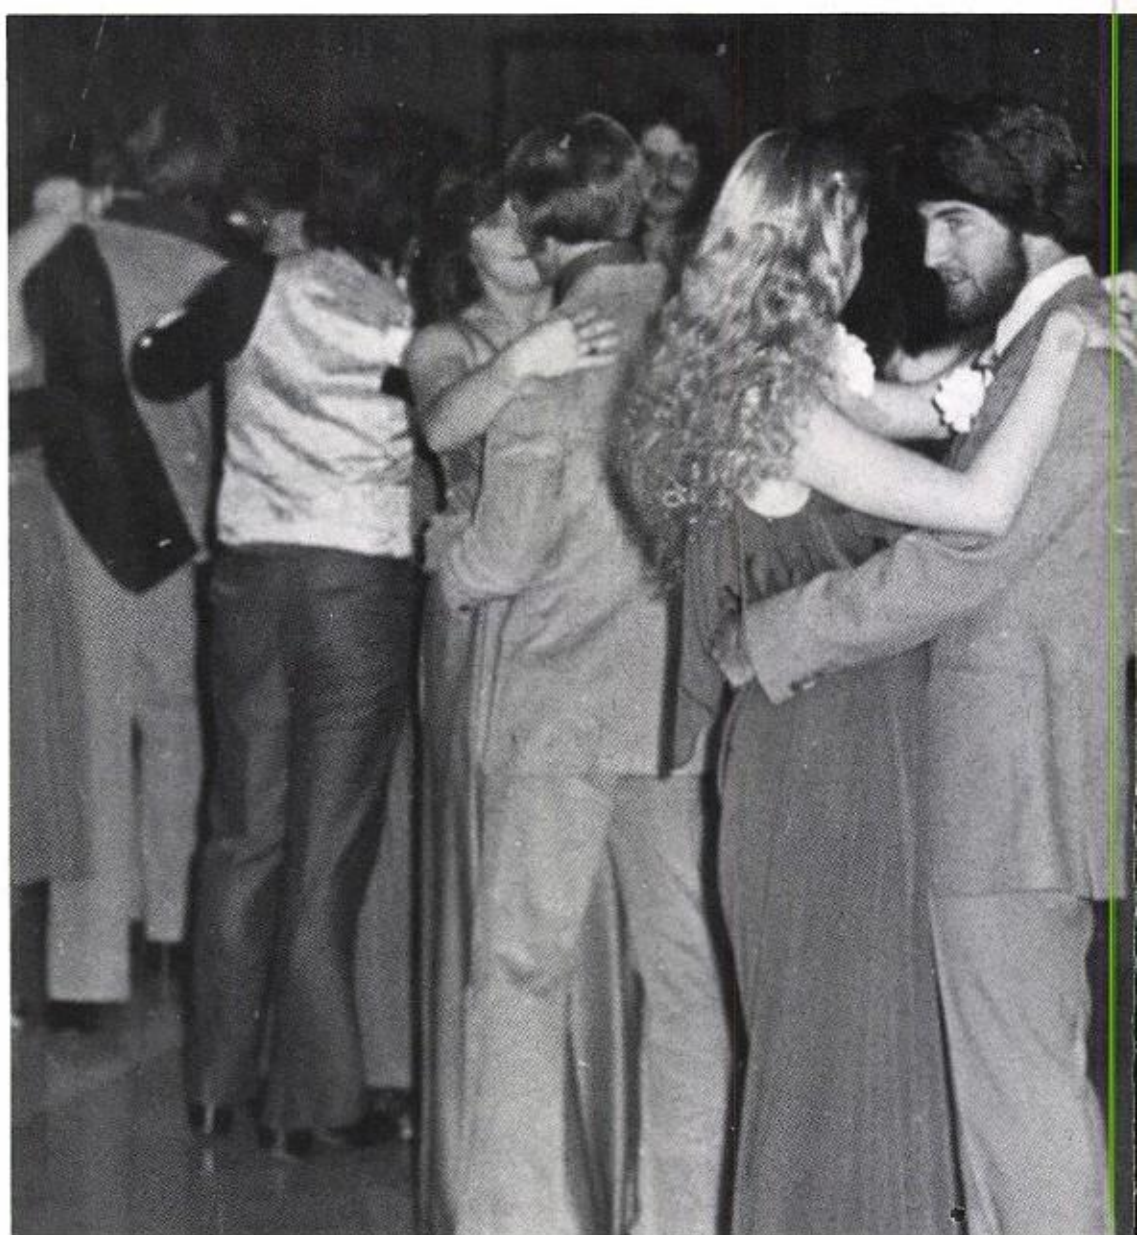

Whether in the Blossom Athletic Center student center or the plush Turtle Creek Country Club, Rough Riders were swept off their feet and onto dance floors in dances ranging from Howdy to Homecoming.

To welcome students into another year, Student Council sponsored the annual Howdy Dance. The Music Machine played the top tunes for the first of many dances to come.

Homecoming '78, finished with a dance at Turtle Creek.

Each dance had a different atmosphere. "A Misty Blue Evening" set the mood for the Junior-Senior Prom. The presence of a live band added to the excitement of the prom.

Concerts thrill students

As the glow of matches and lighters took the place of artificial glare and firecrackers added to the noise of the crowd, the voice of Joe Antony would announce — San Antonio!! Please welcome — Cheap Trick, Foreigner, Van Halen, Black Sabbath, Riot, Sammy Hagar, Triumph, The Godz, Boston, Angel, Styx, Budgie, Legs Diamond, Alice Cooper, the Babys, Blackdog, Judas Priest, UFO, Ted Nugent, Aerosmith — who gave their audiences heavy doses of good old party down rock 'n roll.

Although the ticket sales of Top 40 groups like Foreigner and Boston were boosted phenomenally by their radio hits, heavy metal groups had no trouble filling up Municipal Auditorium (until its destruction by fire), Convention Center Arena and the Texas Music Hall.

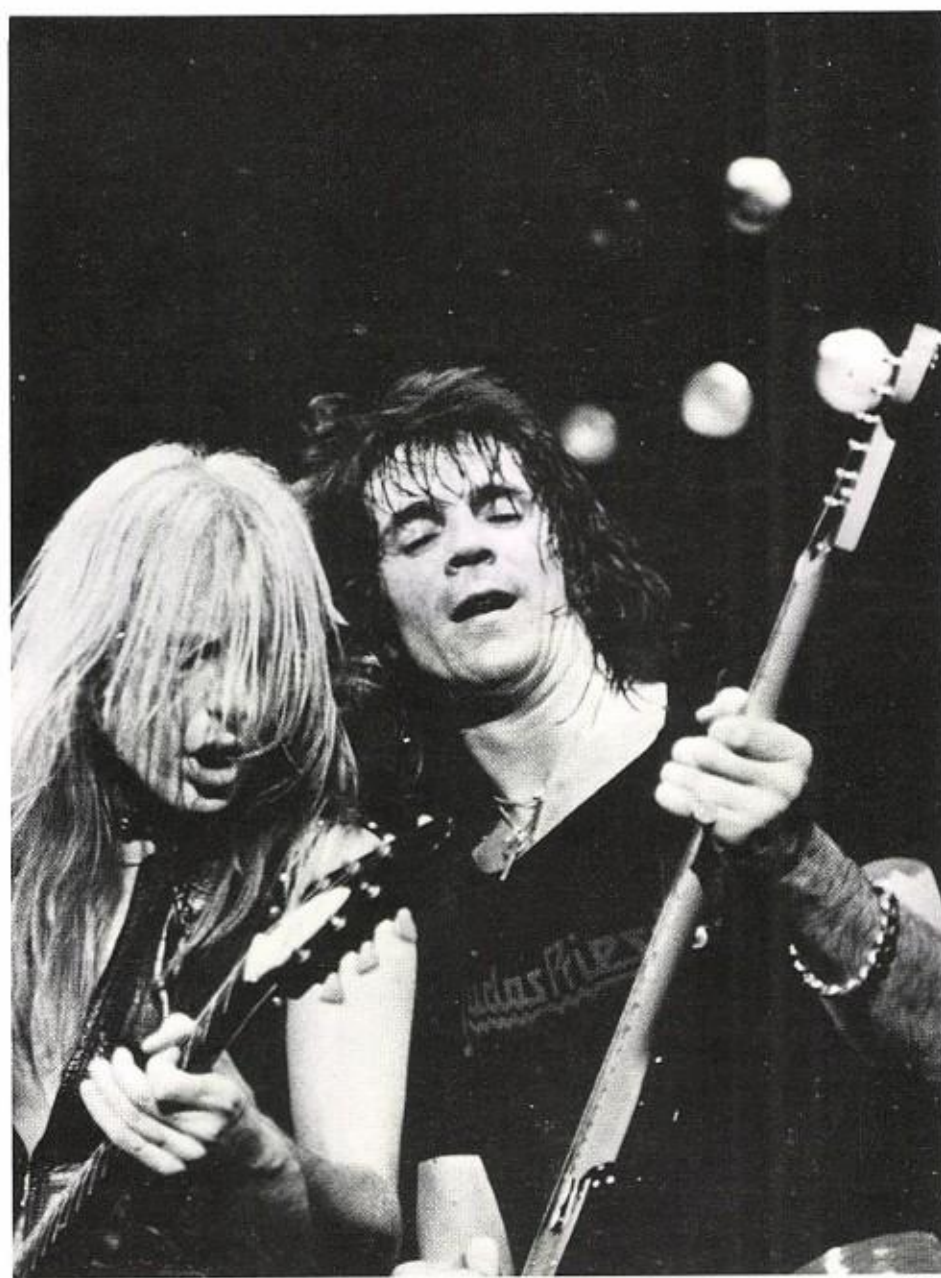

Outside, vendors positioned at critical locations by doors and ramps pushed T-shirts, belt buckles, posters, programs — anything with the opening groups or the headliner's logo on it was usually up by eager concertgoers with six or seven bucks to spare.

Riders fire up!

From togas to teddy bears, Spirit Week filled the halls with displays of Rider Spirit. The five days in October started off with "Jersey and Teddy-Bear Day," which brought hundreds more furry bodies into TR's corridors.

"Costume Day" brought an outstanding number of togas in the tradition of the film "National Lampoon's Animal House." The number of togas roaming the halls of Roosevelt far dominated any other costume that might have shown up. Several stand-ins "Teddy Look-Alike Day," Wednesday and Thursday's "Hang the Cat" day was adapted from Churchill's "Hang Teddy Day".

A Misty Blue Evening

The theme was "A Misty Blue Evening" and for many that's just how it felt on Prom night. For the past years, tradition has the Junior class sponsoring the event at Turtle Creek Country Club.

This big social event begins with dinner at one of San Antonio's finer restaurants. But before all this takes place, there's weeks of deciding of a date and choosing the right dress and tuxedo.

"Infinity" supplied the music that night. They played a variety of music from Latin Polkas to the latest disco tunes.

"Sponsoring a Prom is a tough job but it's great to see such a successful outcome." Junior Class President Darryl Ward said.

Riders battle mid-season slump

Excitement in the air, Spirit Week highlight was the game with Churchill. Although Riders were ahead the first half 14-0, pressure was on in the second. The Chargers pulled out in front with a field goal in the final minutes of the game to win 17-14.

Riders rallied to crush San Marcos 37-15, but let up too soon and were again defeated this time by Seguin 24-15. These two losses were only mid-season slump, for the Riders began strong and ended strong.

JV prepares for the future

Building a winning tradition starts early. It takes dedication, love for the game, and mental discipline that totally rejects the thought of losing.

Junior Varsity team most certainly possessed that sort of mental attitude. They finished the season with an impressive record of eight wins and two losses compared to their freshman record of two and fourteen.

"They improved quite a bit," said Coach Irl Kincaid. "With this sort of talent on the Junior Varsity team, there is great promise for future Varsity teams."

Riders vie for title in bi-district playoff

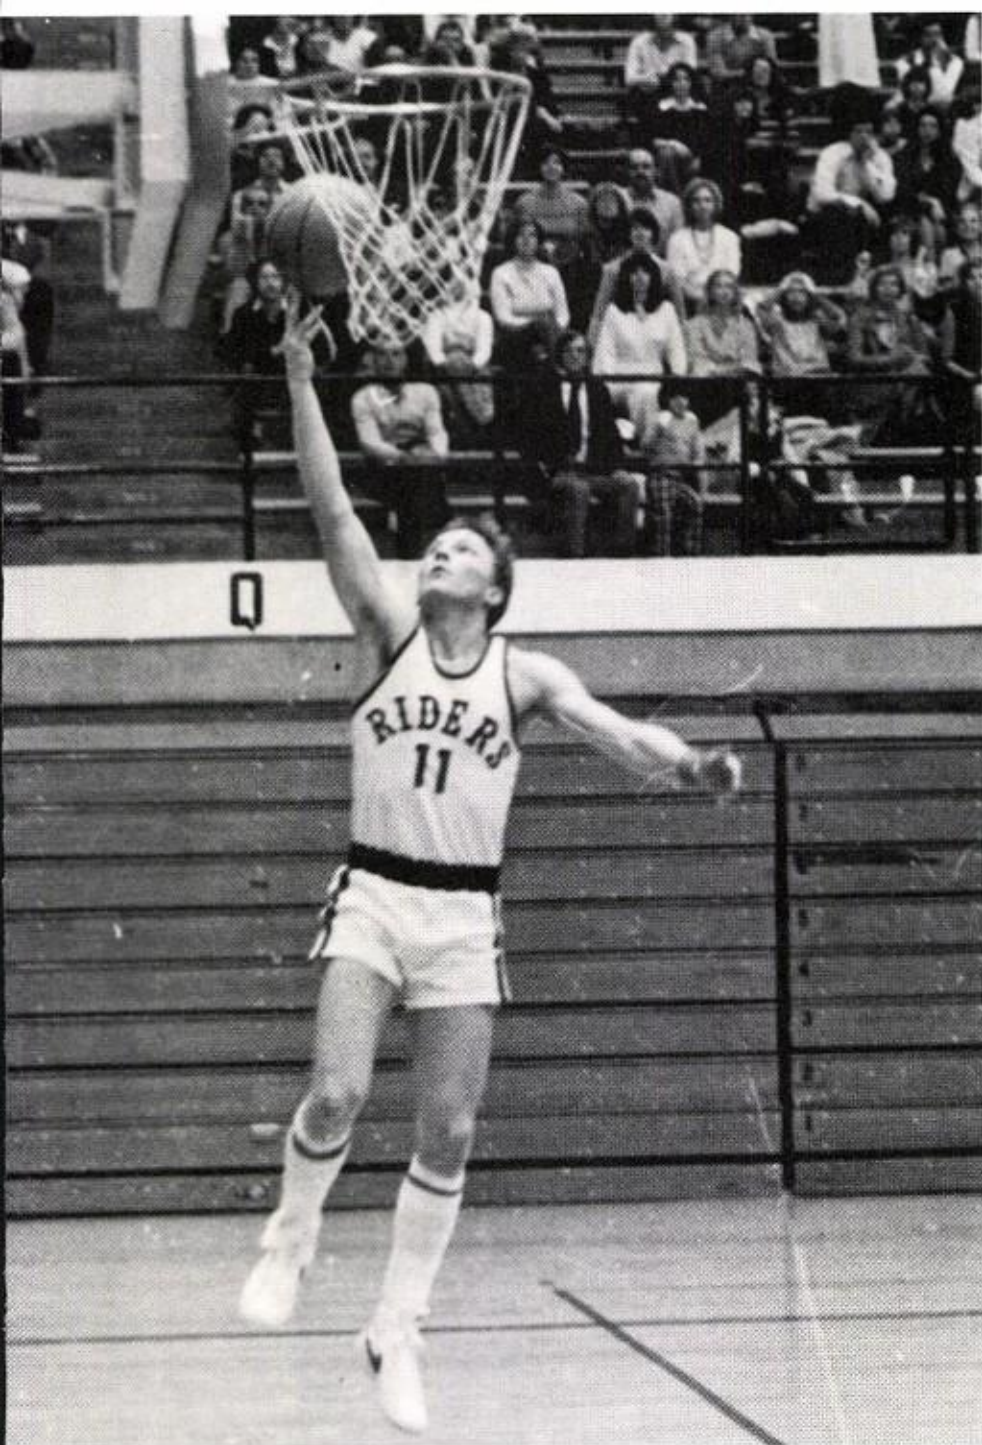

Posting 22 victories and only 9 losses the TR varsity basketball team has kept Coach Tyson's record alive. Every year that Coach Tyson has been at Roosevelt his varsity basketball team has won 20 plus victories. A feat made easier by three returning starters: Mike Ballew, Curtis Thomas, and Glen Kendig.

Finishing the first half of district play in first place guaranteed the Riders a berth in the playoffs. The second half of district play was won by Seguin who proved to have the edge over the Riders when they defeated them 67-76 at Alamo Stadium. The season may have been over for the Riders but the glory definitely was not. Getting as far as they did was a victory in itself.

Seniors elect favorites

Each year 12 seniors are selected by the class to be honored as "superlatives." One guy and one girl are chosen to represent each category.

Lona Prablek and Adam Romo were selected "best dressed," and Tammy Baker and John Maher took "best looking." Jackie Young and Doug Archer won the "wittiest" title, and Susan Sullivan and Steve Payne were recognized as "friendliest."

Rounding out the selections were Mary Nan Spiker and Scott Pruitt as "most likely to succeed," and Susan Sullivan and Danny Angell as "best all-around."

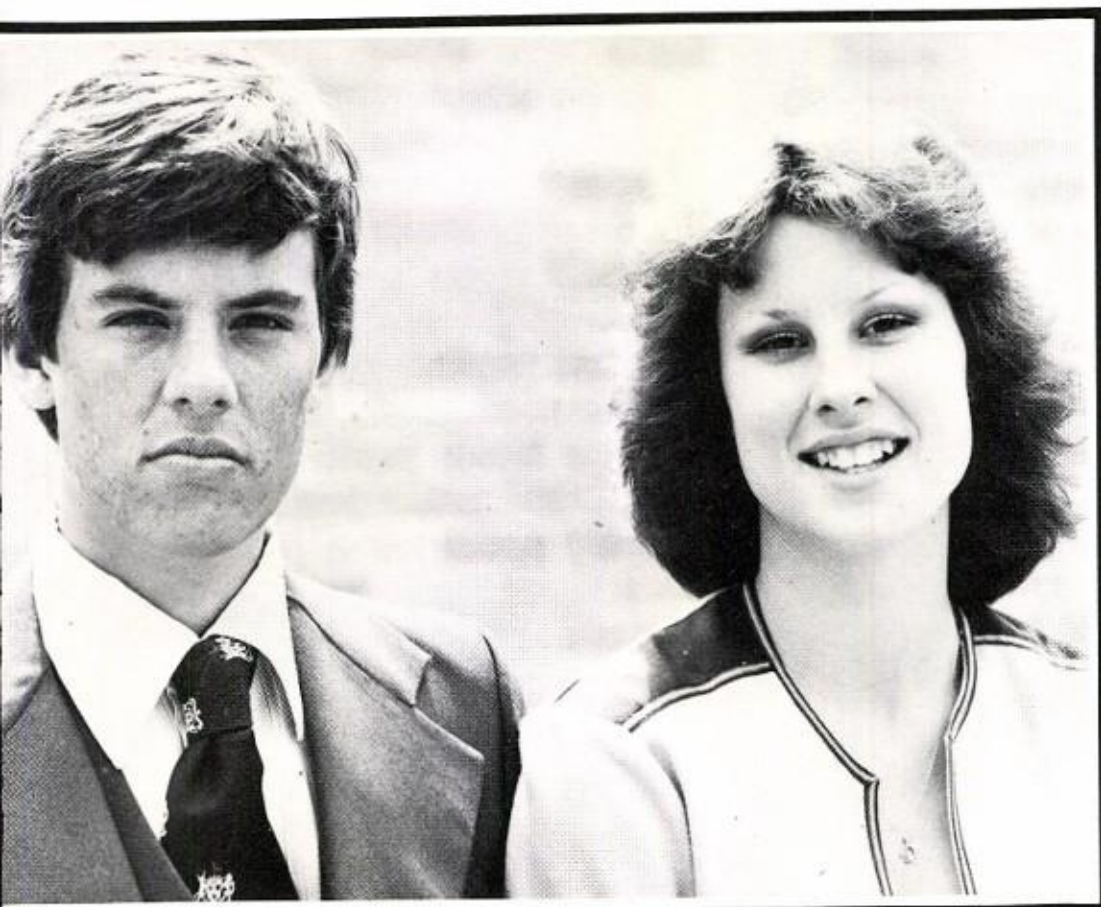

The Class of '79, being the unique class that they were, contended that it was nearly impossible to choose a "superlative," as proven by the three-page ballot. But like everything else, uniqueness gave way to tradition, and 12 worthy "superlatives" were chosen.

Seniors entertain students at 'show'

"I've never laughed so much before", this was a comment one student made after watching the Senior show, April 21.

Every year it's traditional for seniors to display their talents in fashion modeling and entertainment, and this year was no exception.

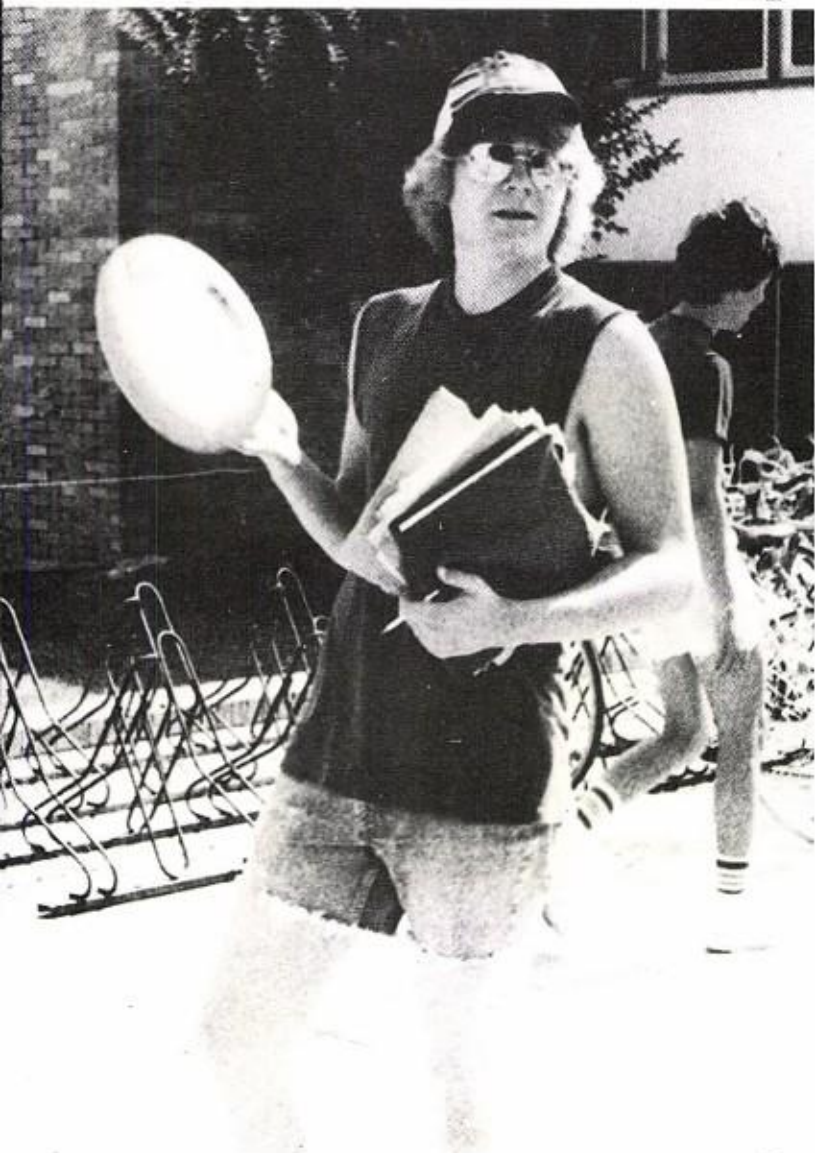

Seniors modeled a variety of fashions ranging from sportswear and casual to disco and formal wear.

Skits from Saturday Night Live were a large portion of the show along with the Newlywed Game. The winning couple, Mary Nan Spiker and Scott Pruitt won a free dinner at the Magic Time Machine.

June 2, 1979

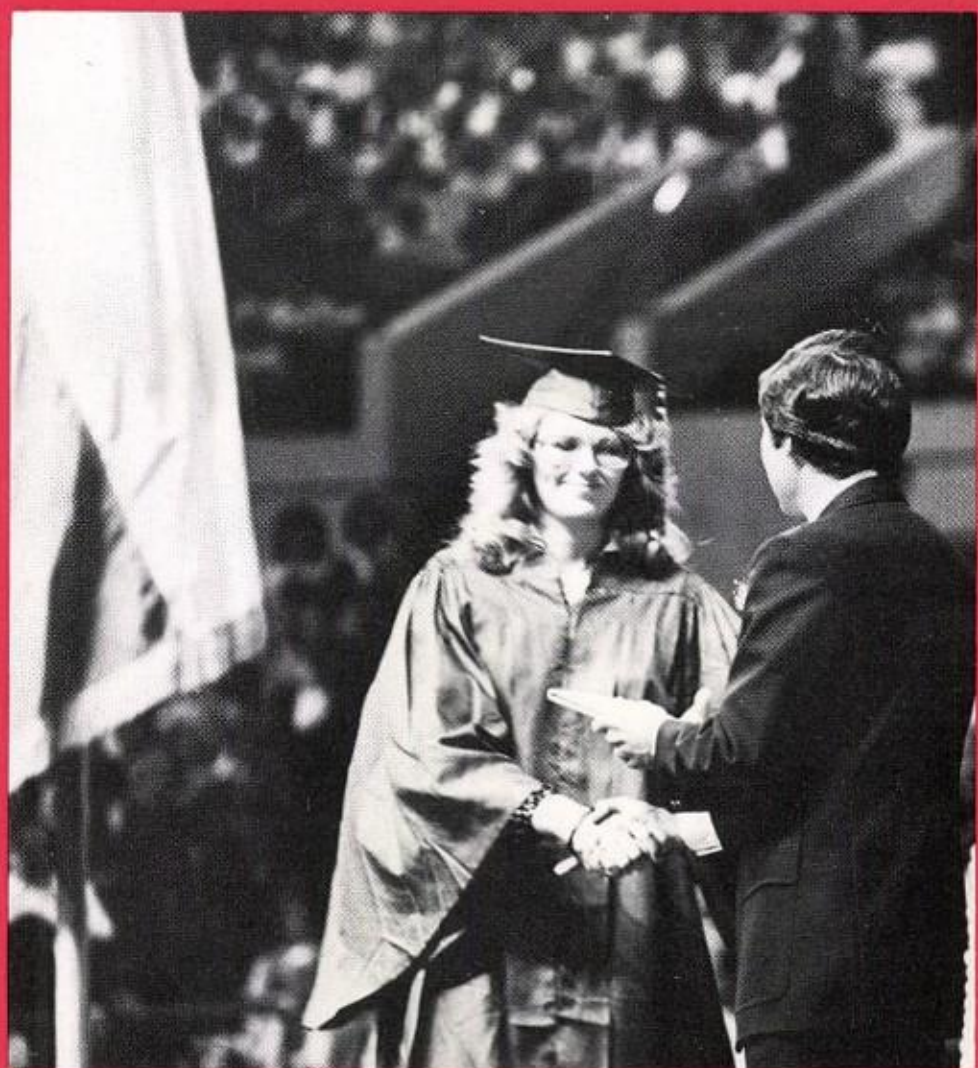

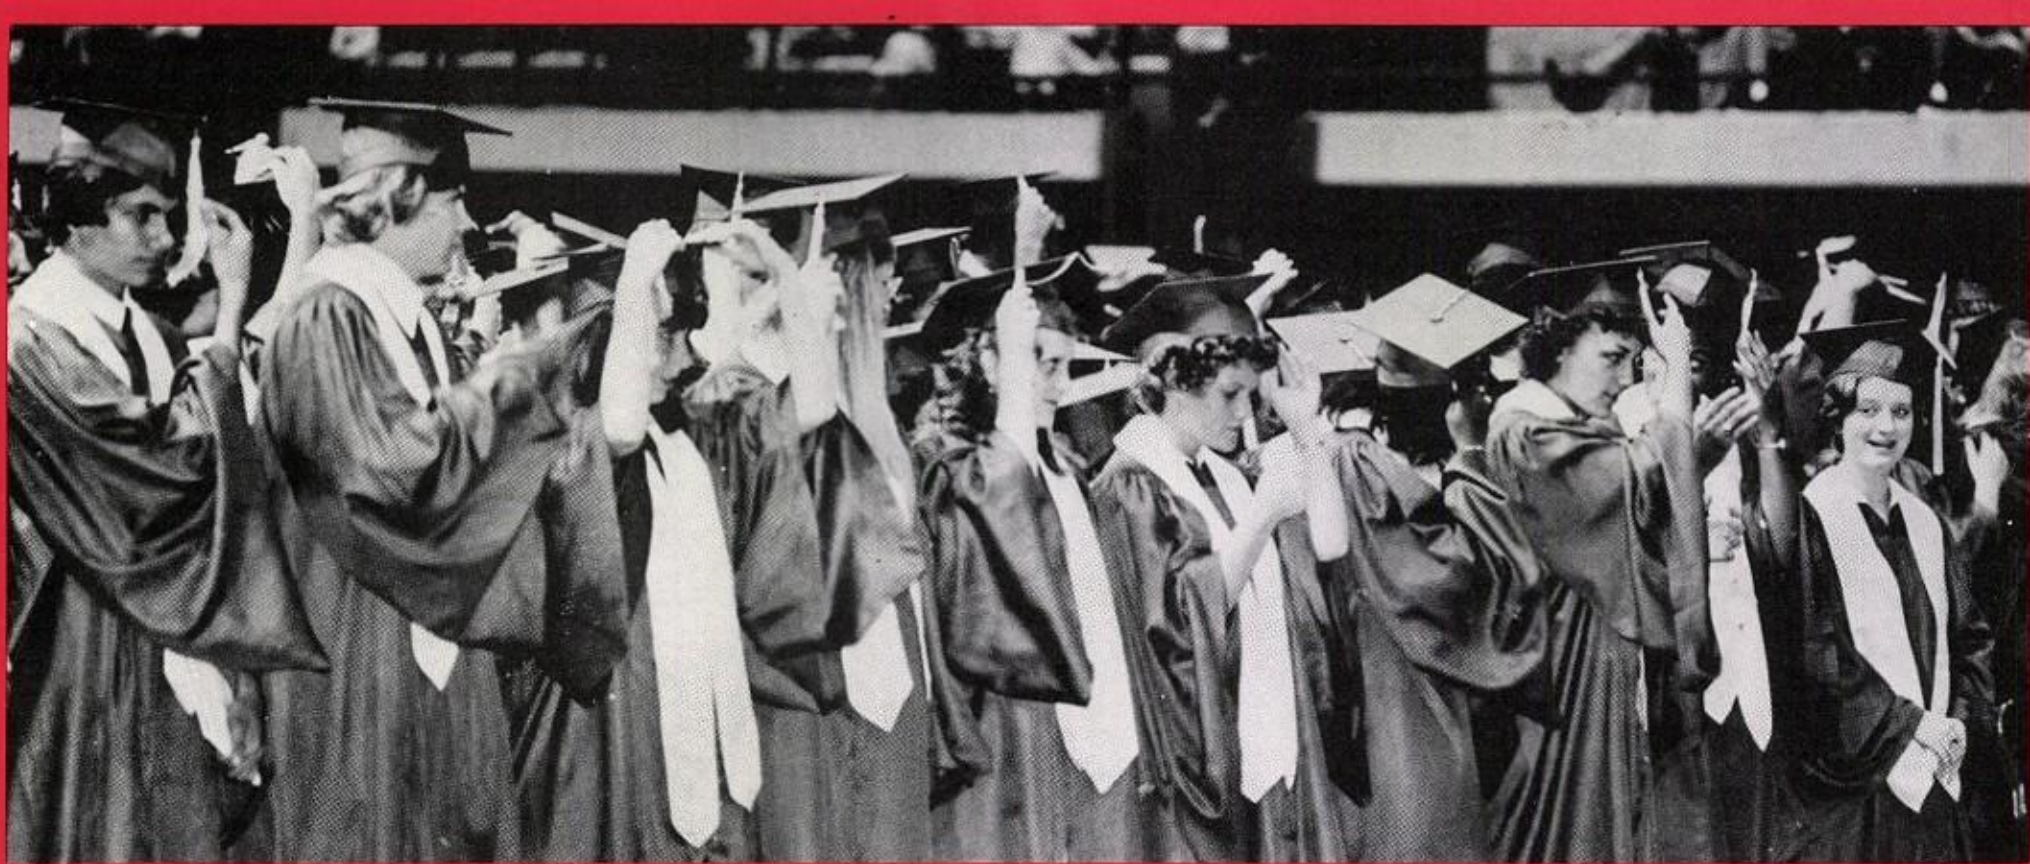

"To share, to seek, to find and not to yield."

"Though much is taken, much abides, and though we are not that strength which in the old days moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are: one equal temper of hearts made weak by time and fate but strong in will. To share, to seek, to find and not to yield."

— Tennyson

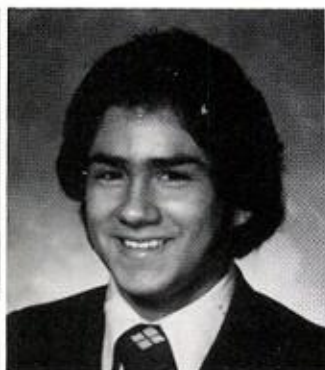

Tomorrow's realities . . .

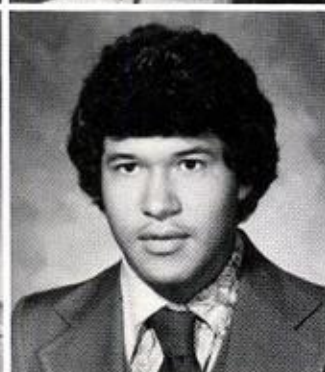

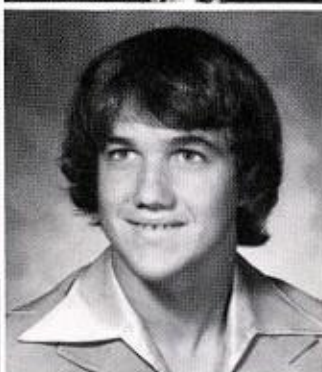

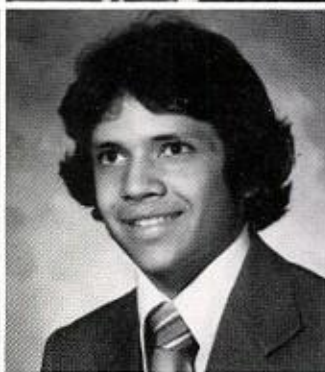

"We know what we are, but not what we may be" — with these words of the class motto, Daniel Vimont began his commencement address, and the graduation ceremony. Principal Thomas E. Moseley presented the 1979 graduating class of over 700 students with their diplomas. Tomorrow's realities come to pass. The Class of '79 are now official alumni of Theodore Roosevelt High School.

Moseley, staff prove devotion

As chief executive of TR, Principal Tom Moseley proved to be an excellent leader, executor, and participant for the scores of curricular and extra-curricular events occurring at TR.

Administrators attended all TR sporting events and as distinguished guests attended several activities sponsored by various TR clubs. Honor organizations often invited them to attend banquets. In addition, the administration spent many hours attending administration meetings and seminars. Through their efforts, they became known as a very devoted administrative staff.

Secretaries aid school and staff

Answering phones, typing, filing and taking and delivering messages kept secretaries busy during their jobs as the administrators' right hands.

Secretaries not only had to deal with administrators' problems and keeping their offices in order, but coped with hundreds of bewildered students who asked hundreds of bewildering questions.

Data processing aides sent report cards out on time and made sure no errors appeared on them. The school bookkeeper took care of financial matters and kept everything "in balance" for TR's scores of clubs, organizations, departments and faculty.

Election effects changes

NEISD Board, composed of seven elected members and a board approved superintendent, is legally responsible for the district as well as being the voice of the patrons. The board members must establish all general policy and approve all matters dealing with personnel, instruction, and budget.

In a decisive vote on March 14, Northeast voters approved two propositions offering over $29 million in improvements in present educational facilities and construction of new schools to house the population of students. This sum will allow the board to make necessary changes and additions for the betterment of NEISD educational facilities.

Devoted faculty unites students

Most would concur that a liberal education alone does not make a teacher. Nor does one's education. Nor does student teaching. These are merely preparations for the true experience that creates the teacher; that initial spark which may make or break them — the first year of teaching. The teacher is now entering the "real" world and a new phase of life, not just a profession. Usually the teacher will have to move to a new community. This means a new place to live, shop, and bank. He also needs to consider transportation, insurance, and making new friends. Each year tens of thousands of college grads leave the campus to head back to high school — but this time to teach. Though Theodore Roosevelt still has a few of its opening line-up from 1966, the faculty of this school is basically composed of teachers joining the staff in the recent years of TR.

Experiments, practices, and performances were a few of the classroom situations that brought the students of TR together. New approaches to old subjects were aimed at enticing students and promoting interest. Individual involvement was a major emphasis.

In 1979, the faculty of Theodore Roosevelt High School drifted from the conventional classroom lectures in an effort to get individuals to apply their talent to the particular course of study.

Whether they were better at creating or observing, analyzing or performing, students all came together through learning.

Students volunteer for community

Emphasis was on practical experience — the kind of learning one can't get in a book — in sociology and child development classes.

Students in these classes were encouraged to do volunteer work in the community. Some became involved by doing volunteer work for Drug Abuse Central or Planned Parenthood while others assisted at nursing homes and hospitals. Most, however, found that they would have just as valuable a learning experience in the classroom as out.

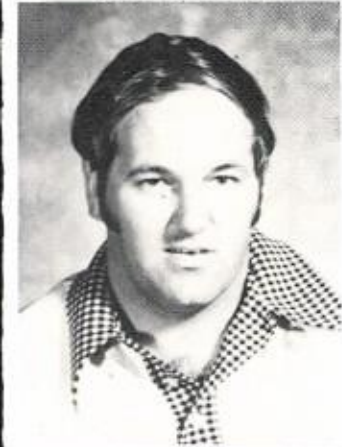

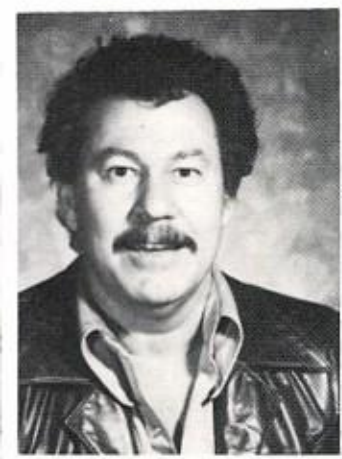

Vocational students learned specialized skills, while Homemaking taught domestic skills. In sociology, juniors and seniors were learning "body language" while others were learning how to rear a child in Child Development. These helped Roosevelt High School students learn by experiencing.

Learning by talking, listening, and communicating involved the student and teacher in a rewarding educational process. Languages, music and related arts, speech and counseling services all depended upon the TLC method.

A premium was placed on listening, an abused art in times of impatience. Individualized attention was a primary goal for these classes in spite of large enrollments. Said French teacher Lillian Parker, "to know a language is to speak a language. I try to give my students a chance to speak by getting them involved in classroom discussions."

Speech classes stress the spoken word for in order for a student to become an effective speaker he must first go through a process of listening, speaking, and when he excels, communicating.

The TLC system is used by counselors not only to offer moral and educational support but also to generate a genuine concern for the many individuals of each class.

Students enjoy work/study program

Students with the initiative who wanted to work and learn at the same time found several avenues opened to them. They could become involved in industrial trades, office education, training for executive positions, and retail selling.

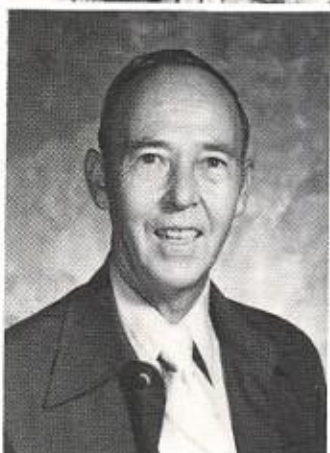

Those enrolled in these programs went to school half a day and worked the rest, receiving credits for the time they worked as well as for the courses they took.

While learning about the job itself took place during working hours, valuable information was received during class concerning such things as social security and income tax.

Everybody makes mistakes, but students in chemistry, biology, homemaking, physical science and physics found that maybe they got more than their share.

With over 1500 students enrolled in at least one of these, almost everyone had the chance to experiment at least once a day. Homemaking classes experimented with cooking and sewing, although these composed only a small fraction of the entire course.

The food which tickled the tastebuds of those in homemaking, was used by biology students to find different parts of the tongue and detect those "tickled tastebuds." Dissections composed the "meat" of the course, however, and students learned parts and functions of various insects and other animals.

Students, teachers share responsibility

Logic is the key word in the process of analysis. Whether it was the steps of a math problem or a dissection, a logical process had to be followed. Whether analysis was conducted by the teacher, the student, or a computer, what it was all about was to change the way of thinking and to apply logic to the events of every day. Easier said than done, n'est-ce pas?

Students were able to cope and overcome "disasters" and achieve an end result, the logical way of reason.

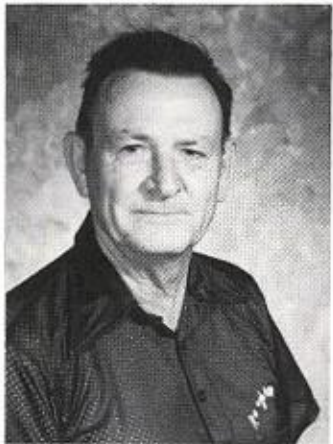

CPP — creating, practicing, and performing — were the final steps of the learning process. You acquired knowledge, you researched for answers to your questions, your questions answered, you began to create your own ideas — with your hands, your mind. You may need practice — before school, after school, at lunch maybe? (The great devotion). "Practice makes perfect" after all so it is worth the effort, for when you begin to perform, you are not only belonging in a group. It was belonging to a group, for a group. Individuals sharing more than a class period, individuals sharing responsibility, sharing the trials and tribulations. The experiences experienced with a group are like none other.

Students' efforts bring success

No easy grades. No easy credits. Hard work plus more. The performance was the final step in the learning process. The enthusiasm generated cannot be equalled and the motivation is at its highest. Performance motivated higher degrees of skill development from individuals and demanded utmost discipline from the classes as performing units.

And when all is engrossed and absorbed, when the final information is tabulated the scholar is the performer, the one who tries and tries and will succeed . . .

Custodial staff brightens up school, grounds

For 20 of TR's favorite Rough Riders, the school day began every day at 6 a.m. These were the custodial staff of Roosevelt High School.

Under the leadership of head custodian Romero Alcorta, these men and women played an important role in the smooth operation of our school. Not only did they have to clean up after some 3000 slobbs, but lawn work, painting, and maintenance work all had to be done.

Just because the school day ended at 3:35 for students didn't mean the day was over for all. For the night shift, the day was really only beginning. The school had to be prepared for another day of mass confusion, for after all "a custodian's work is never done!"

1 Cafeteria staff member Joan Zarfos slices roast beef for another Thursday lunch crowd.

2 Custodial staff includes Rudy Sifaenes, head custodian Romero Alcorta, Crecerio Onofre, Jesse Villarreal, Ruben Ortiz, Van Tran, Heliodoro Rocha, Hog-Oun, Syvester Torres, Lazaro Alvarez, and Alfredo Cervantes.

Cafeteria staff promotes nutrition

Trying to please over 1500 starving students a day was the not so easy task assigned to the TR cafeteria staff. "We enjoy trying to please the kids, but with a school this size, you can't please everyone all the time," claimed cafeteria staff leader Lorene Byington.

Their long day began at 6 a.m., at which time, the staff began preparing lunch (and new for the 78-79 school year, breakfast) to be served to three separate lunch mobs.

Cafeteria staff members not only had to withstand the heat and pressures of the kitchen, but the requests and annoyances of 1500 kids.

1 Mary Schelper dices carrots to go into the day's soup.

2 Snack bar personnel members Sadie Kee, Juanita Goode, and Frida Jordan wrap hamburgers in preparation for "A" lunch.

Eight work to improve school, organizations

Eight seniors from the Class of '79 filled the shoes of the "big sticks" or leaders of the major campus organizations.

Elected by the student body or appointed by advisors, "big sticks" were responsible for the activities of their organizations and for the duties that accompanied their positions.

On the spirit level, Kim Gray led the patriots through grueling practices to achieve a reputation of one of the most respected drill teams in the state. Deana Vincent, captain of the Cavaliers, was in charge of one of the biggest spirit organizations. TR's main spirit force, the Cavaliers performed on the field and in the stands for many games.

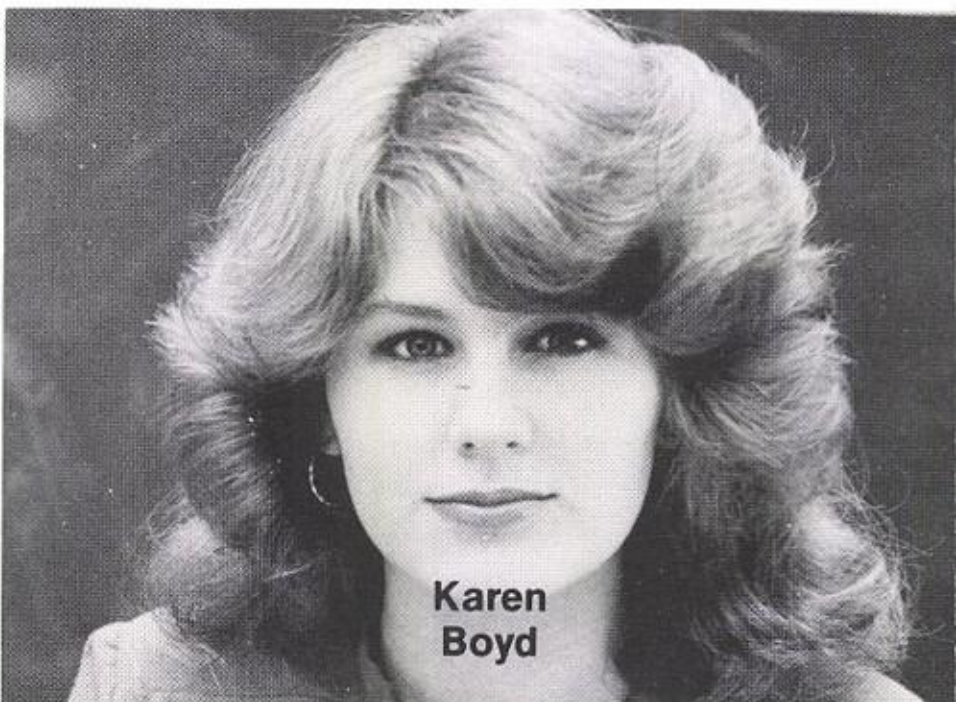

John Garza and Danny Vimont were responsible for activities in the music field. Garza marched the band to sweepstakes title. As student director of the choir, Vimont helped Director Mary Ann Winden with choir functions.

Serving as editors of the BIG STICK and SAGAMORE were Jena Fuller and Karen Boyd. The duo worked to record the year's events in the newspaper and yearbook.

Elected by the student body, Susan Sullivan had the responsibility of presiding over the Student Council. David Johnson commanded the ROTC corps through its most successful year to date.

Officers decide class policy

Twenty students, five from each class were elected by popular vote to serve as officers. They were responsible for the planning and the execution of class business.

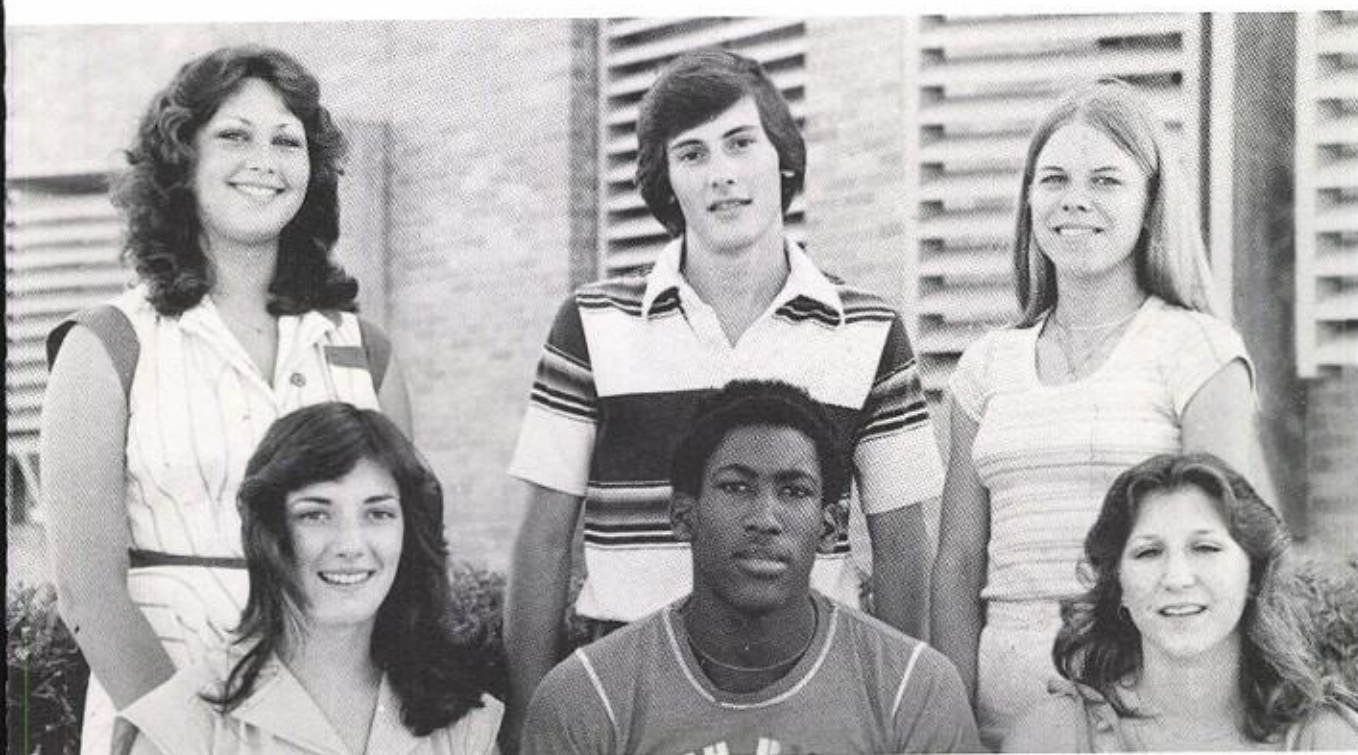

For the senior officers this included fund raising projects like the T-Shirt and mug sales and football and balloon sales. Another major project was the senior style and variety show.

The juniors sponsored the junior-senior prom at the Turtle Creek Country Club while the sophomore class raised money by showing movies to the student body. The freshman class sponsored canned food drives for the janitorial staff at Thanksgiving and for the disabled at Christmas.

1 Senior class officers are Treasurer Debbie Hart, Vice president Vincent Lugo, President Danny Angell, Secretary Felicia Ards and Chaplain Sherry Dunn.

2 Junior class officers are Secretary Sharon Smith, Treasurer Candy Obie, Vice president Cliff Hohmann, President Darrell Ward, Chaplain Rhonda Kristek and Sgt.-at-Arms Jackie Wade.
